BOARD OF HEALTH TO ESTABLISH VACCINE STATIONS

One or two of Wilmington's drug stores will be utilized by the Board of Health for the establishment of 'Health Stations', in which emergency supplies of vaccine will be kept under refrigeration. The Health Board voted the establishment of the stations Monday night.

The vaccines are to be supplied by the Commonwealth, without cost to the town.

If the Commonwealth will allow the establishment of two Health Stations the Board of Health intends to establish one at the Silver Lake Pharmacy, and one at the North Wilmington Pharmacy.

If only one Health Station is to be allowed it will be in the Wilmington Center Pharmacy.

All four drug stores in Wilmington volunteered their services to the Board of Health.

CALL MEN FALL DOWN SAYS FIRE CHIEF

TM TO INVESTIGATE FIRE CHIEF'S CHARGES

Charges by Fire Chief Arthur Boudreau were heard by the Selectmen in a closed door meeting Monday night, and Town Manager Cecil O. Lancaster was instructed to investigate and take action.

TM Lancaster stated that he would not take any action concerning the appointment of three new men to the Fire Department, as voted in the Town Meeting, until he had a satisfactory answer to the charges of Chief Boudreau.

Both Boudreau and Lancaster were willing that the charges, which involve non-reporting by call firemen for duty, be heard in public, but the Selectmen, fearing that personalities might be involved preferred to hear the charges behind closed doors.

SPACE FOR THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WELFARE

One of the problems now confronting the TM and others in the Town Hall is the re-location of the Board of Public Welfare.

TM Dean Cushing, back about 1951, moved this board from its then location on Main Street to the Town Hall, as an economy move. It now occupies 336 square feet, and has storage room in addition in the Town Hall cellar. In the office are four people.

One of the complaints is that elderly people with a heart condition find it difficult to walk up the three steps into the office, and another is that the office is not centrally located, making taxi fares higher. In addition to this the space that is occupied could very well be used for other purposes, all of which means that if other suitable quarters can be found the Board of Public Welfare may be soon moved.

One proposal is to move this board into the quarters being vacated by the Police Department in the Fire Department Station. It isn't very highly thought of, in the Fire Department, which needs the space to be vacated.

HEALTH PROBLEMS

The Board of Health has been handed the problem of which is more important - inspection of eating places - restaurants and school cafeterias, or inspection of new homes that are being built.

One or other is going to suffer, Sanitarian Patrick Thebeau said Monday night. He cannot get time to do both.

And the Board of Health was split as to which was the most important. Chairman Gus Walker believes in rigid inspections of restaurants while Marion Boylan doesn't think it fair to hold up seasonal constructional workers because somebody can't make an inspection.

The Board of Health had asked for an additional $1600 for a part time worker to help the Sanitarian, but it was turned down by the Board of Selectmen.

CENSUS TAKING

The problem of Census taking in Wilmington, (as distinguished from the Federal Census of March 31st) is now occupying the attention of both the School Committee and the Selectmen.

It was proposed that the School Committee amalgamate the office of their Truant Officer and their annual School Census into one position, and that this pay $4500 a year.

But the Board of Registrars told the Selectmen that there might be a duplication of efforts, and dumped the problem into their collective laps.

Now both the School Committee and the Selectmen have told their respective executives, (The TM and the Supt. Of Schools) to study the question and come up with some recommendations.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP 224

During school vacation the girls and leader, Mrs. Deavignnon, spent an enjoyable day in Boston. They went with Girl Scout troops from various areas of Boston. A very interesting guided tour of the State House was attended. After eating their lunch and feeding the pigeons on the Boston Common they went for a visit to Jordon's Toyland. The big evening came last attending the Ice Follies at Boston Garden.

On March 6th all the girls in groups went to the church of their choice.

Through the kindness of Mr.
Poole, a display to signify the Girl Scout Laws and Arts, etc. was in the bakery window during Girl Scout Week March 6-12th.

TOWN NOTES

Marion Street Extension Marion Street extension, as any good resident of this fair town will tell you, is a road that meanders through the woods from the end of Marion Street and finally comes out on Chestnut Street, down near the Apple Monument.

But no more - at least to some people who live on Burlington Avenue. It now runs from Marion Street in a northerly and westerly direction and finally comes out of the woods somewhere near Wilmington Square.

It wouldn't have happened if our zealous Planning Board hadn't spent three years revising the names of streets in this town, and wiping out the duplicate names by changing them.
But the Planning Board did, and some people are always ready to carry on a good story - especially when such fertile ground has already been prepared.

An out of town firm prepared some booklets which were distributed last weekend, with an index of the streets in Wilmington. Unfortunately the compiler didn't know the story of the street changes, and as a result made several errors.

One of them described Marion Street as running 'from main swly and e'ly to Chestnut.

And the collars haven't cooled down yet, on Burlington Avenue.

Mutiny

The wrestling matches, which the Rotary Club are having for the benefit of their Scholarship Fund are running nicely, with good attendance, and good results fro the fund. There is to be another, this Friday, in the High School Gym, and it looks like a sell out at the moment.

And now that it is running nicely a couple of Rotarians are talking about switching the matches over to another promoter. They think they can get more money yet, for the Scholarship Fund.

But the chairman of the Wrestling Match Committee, or what ever one calls it, won't hear of it. He doesn't want to change horses in mid-stream, or kill the goose that lays the golden egg, or something like that.

We understand that a mutiny is brewing, among his loyal cohorts, which might be news to said chairman.

Broken Marble

Father Joseph Leahy, of St.
Dorothy's has run into a bit of bad luck.

The altar, and in back of the altar of the new church was planned to be of Italian marble. The marble arrived recently with the altar in perfect condition, but the marble pièce in back was broken beyond repair.

We understand it will take several months to get a replacement.

Kelley's Chairs

The High School, Tuesday night, was crowded with parents who were visiting during the annual Teacher's Night.

We noticed, during our tour of the school that Francis P.
Kelley, math teacher extraordinary, was holding out his fort in the lobby of the Herbert C. Barrows auditorium.

Mr. Kelley had 36 empty chairs over which to guard. It seems that his 'home room' is being painted, and temporarily his pupils have the lobby for a 'home room'.

Tewks to Tewks

The Town Crier Photographers took a few minutes of moving pictures of the Town Meeting for a film we are preparing, and a few days later we were accused of doing the same thing in Tewksbury.

It wasn't us, but somebody did take pictures of their town meeting (which looks as though it might last for weeks).

We understand the moving pictures are to be sent to Tewksbury, England, and the town of Tewks-

Variety is the spice of shopping at the new Woburn Plaza Star Market Eeny, meeny, miny, moe . . . That's a game you could play in every department for a year and still not exhaust all the choices at the new Woburn Plaza Star Market. This exciting store, the supermarket of the sixties, offers at least $\frac{1}{3}$ more choice in every category than any other store. Why, in crackers and cookies alone, Star stocks 350 different brands. How's that for variety?

And take meats — there are 129 different items — 35 just in beef. The produce story is just as amazing. On any winter day, you'll find at least 50 different vegetables and 25 different fruits. Over the course of a year, Star will carry 235 different produce items.

And here are more Star-variety facts that will surprise you: you could prepare 87 different meals using Star's canned goods and never repeat yourself. You could buy a different loaf of bread every day for 40 days and never have the same kind twice.

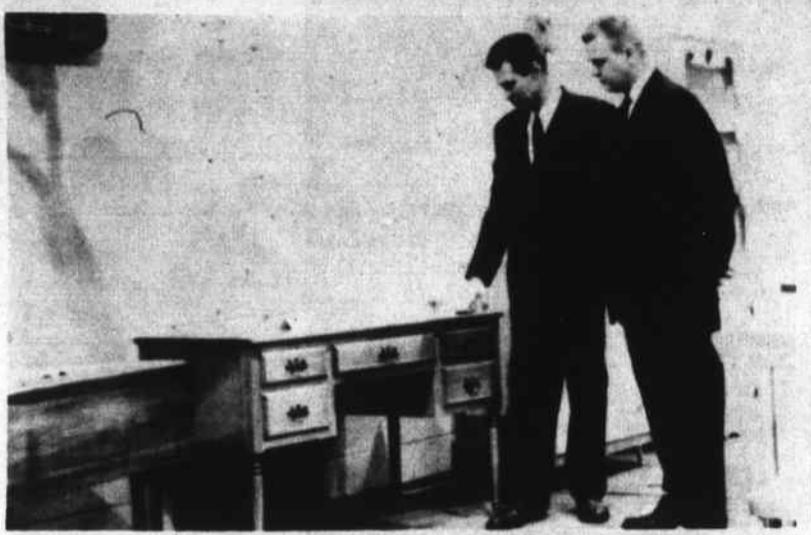

These are just a few reasons why . . .

You'll eat better by far if you shop at Star.

PLANNING BOARD WANTS OLD 'CEMENT DUMP' REMOVED

The Wilmington Planning Board has written a letter to the Town Manager, requesting that action be taken to remove the remains of a Cement Loader, in the B&M RR yard near Wilmington Square.

The loader collapsed about a year ago, and has remained in the same site without change since then.

Green Hats

We didn't see William Agreeable Smith last Thursday, and as a result we are unable to certify that he was dressed up in his customary 17th of March Green, with flowing green tie etc., a green hat and a TD pipe.

But we are told that Pat Thibau, Town Sanitarian, had to admit to his Irish Blood, by wearing a green hat.

The hat was on the counter of the Town Hall for a while, and Selectman Don Kidder came in. He saw it, and tried it on.

Now everybody knows that Don has a much larger head than has Pat, to hear the descriptions we have heard of Don.

A green tie would probably have looked better.

MEAT BUYING POINTERS

Shoppers that really know their meats usually save money.

They know how to get the best quality for their money.

Here are some meat buying tips for you

1. Look for the U. S. Department of Agriculture grade stamped on the meat. It is a good indicator of quality.

2. Look for marbleizing - fat running through beef makes the meat more tender. The poorer grades will be dark red, and lean, with yellow instead of white fat.

3. Shop with a meat man you can trust, where you can get quality meat for your dollar.

4. Don't be fooled by low 'BONE IN' meat prices. The percentage of bone to meat is a lot higher than you may realize.

Norman, we must report, came in third, out of four contestants from Middlesex County.

He did very well for three quarters of the test, which was all televised. He was only the slightest bit behind the leader.

But then when Norman was given one minute to name as many chemicals as possible beginning with the letter 'c' he ran into trouble - he just couldn't think of any, or only a couple. And that was when Norman dropped down to third place, and finished his TV appearances as the eighth grade boy scientist.

When he got home he ran into a surprise party prepared by his classmates - all boys - the girls were not invited.

The party was the work of the boys in the M-N section of the eighth grade, with one boy in charge of decorations, another in charge of something else, and Bruce Mutchler, of Walker Street in charge of the cake. He baked it, himself.

March 22, 1960

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Mr. Hooper:

I was one of the 91 and so voted because of the principal involved.

You should be used to this sort of thing!

Every School Committee in the state has absolute power to decide: (1) the costs of the schools which is 'near and dear to us all' - the pocketbook (to quote you); and, (2) more important, and dearer to us all, the health, welfare and education of our children, for at least 6 hours a day (over which you have no control.)

You can do something about this repugnant situation: (1) tell these elected officials your wishes regarding a matter of concern to you and the community, or (2) you can inform our State Representatives and Senators that these absolute powers must go.

On the other hand, you can sit back and go on the Philosophy that we gave these elected officials a vote of confidence when we elected them. (What else?) By voting for Articles 51 and 52, we, in good faith, give extra powers to the Board of Selectmen to carry on their work and so confirm our vote of confidence in them.

Sincerely,
M. Flora Kasabuksi

is presenting the Women's Symphonette of Boston on April 2nd, free to the public.

Sarah Carter was a descendant of Sgt. Abram Jaquith, who lived on what is now Duffy property, on Aldrich Road, back about 1665 - one of the first three settlers of Wilmington. She was also a descendant of the Gowling family who built the house on Park Street where the Anderson family lives, in 1710.

Her mother, Sabra Gowing Carter, who died in 1892 at the age of 99 years and 4 months, could remember, as a little girl, hearing her father speak of the news of the death of George Washington.

Sarah was a school teacher, and she taught for many years in the Center School, now the Wilmington Public Library. She married, at the age of 42, Cyrus Lewis Carter, a man who was older than she was.

He was a member of the Sabra Carter family. Sabra Carter seems to have been the first person in the United States to have the idea of packaging flower seeds for sale. She originated the idea while living in what is now the Warren White house, now 95 Middlesex Avenue, and now only a small part of the building that Sarah Carter had. Two other pieces of the building, each as large, stand near the foot of Middlesex Avenue today.

Eight years after Sarah married Cyrus he died, at the age of 70, in 1882, and Sarah and her maiden sister Sabra lived on for years in what was later known as the Chief Hill house, which stood where Weinberg's store is today - it was one of the 'thirds' of the building that had been cut up - now across Middlesex Avenue, and identified by the huge white pillars in front of the house.

Sarah and Sabra provided some amusement to their fellow-townspeople by their slight eccentricities.

With a fairly ample fortune at their command they used to buy their milk in the smallest possible amounts, from the druggist, Charlie Hudson, who owned a store across from the Wilmington Cleaners.

The story is told that Charley Hudson one time growled "Tell those women to send their tea up here, and I'll put in their milk with eyedroppers".

When Mrs. Carter died in 1909 she provided in her will for provided the people with many top-notch lecturers and entertainers - such as the one coming
